

SOCIETY

The Horse Show, to which Richmond society had been looking forward for weeks, closed last night, leaving behind in the minds of those who witnessed its display in the ring and its beauty assemblage, the pleasant remembrance of another brilliant success for the Richmond Horse Show Association from every standpoint.

The show seems to grow in popularity with each annual celebration, indicating a return in Virginians of the twentieth century to the tastes and manners of their colonial and Revolutionary ancestors.

History repeats itself in these characteristic and distinctive traits of disposition. The horses trot around the ring of an amphitheatre in these modern days and take the hurdles and high jumps there, when formerly the sprightly green turf, or an open air race track echoed with the sound of flying hoof-beats, straining for the winner's goal.

Virginia gentlemen in earlier days generally rode their mounts and carried their lady's colors, tied scarfwise, around their arm. The ladies, from the vantage ground of their high-swinging chairs, looked on and applauded, accepted the honors of the victor or consoled the vanquished for his defeat.

For the "spring races" they donned their brightest attire, their most splendid satins, their finest laces; their toilets showed the latest London modes. They coquetted with their cavaliers from behind their fans and were all the wittier in jest and repartee because they were conscious of their pretty looks and their irreproachable gowns.

The cavaliers of those days, indeed, spent far more time and thought on their attire than does the modern man of affairs.

Americans of the present only revert to such styles when representing a period on the stage, or when reproducing the miniatures of their forefathers.

But outer dress and manner do not affect the realities of human nature in the least, and "mildly" who sat during last week in the boxes, wearing Paris confections and holding her little court at the show and after it, is in all essentials the counterpart of her great-grandmother or great-aunt, who sat in the same place, in the same manner, and with the same grace and poise.

And the men! Beneath the outer incrustations of indifference, born of contact with the latter day world, there lies all the chivalry, the gentleness and fire which has made and kept the Virginian what he is, in his lady's understanding. It all and knows, as her great-aunt did, just how to evoke what is best and highest in his manly nature. So it is that the Horse Show in Virginia is not a thing of to-day or yesterday. It is an ever-strengthening connecting link between past and present, which yearly brings them closer together.

The next important society event will be the celebration of Thanksgiving and the dancing of the Thanksgiving german. The rival universities of Virginia and North Carolina will play their annual football game here on Thanksgiving and all the Richmond girls and boys will vie with each other in pleasant attentions to their friends among the Virginia and North Carolina University guests.

The colors of the two teams will appear in every kind of decoration, and luncheons given to visitors in the city will be the order of the day.

The german season will follow closely upon the festivities of Thanksgiving, the Richmond assembly is taking the initiative among the several clubs by holding its annual meeting in the Masonic Temple Friday night, October 23d, at 8:15 o'clock. Although there have been rumors that this club will disband, the officers emphatically deny them, and assert that this season promises to be even more successful and enjoyable than the previous ones have been.

The Monday german and the Richmond Goulin Club have not yet issued their cards, but will doubtless decide upon the dates of the dances to be given by each in a short while.

FALL AND WINTER MODES

MISS VIRGINIA HOLMES GREEBER, OF SMYTH.

Sponsor for Virginia to Grand Camp at Newport News.

W. Nesbitt, of New York, who will wear a gown of light blue chiffon cloth and blue hat, and carry a bouquet of Golden Gate roses.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Eva Marie Guillauden, sister of the bride; Miss Eleanor Guillauden, cousin of the bride; Miss Natalie S. Forrest, Miss Lucy H. Worcester and Miss Ethel Peyser, of New York; Miss Edith M. Ludlow, of East Orange, and Miss Mary E. Root, of Bennington, Vt. They will wear gowns of white silk, with white lace jackets and light blue chiffon hats and sashes, and will carry bouquets of Japanese chrysanthemums.

The bride's gown will be of white herse lace, with Arabian point flounces over white chiffon, with a veil of point applique lace, and will carry a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and white orchids.

The ushers will be Dudley Guillauden, brother of the bride; Alexander M. Orr, Jr., William J. Hise, Jr., of New York; Frederick O. Ludlow and William O. Ludlow, of East Orange, and George J. Valenta, of Philadelphia.

The best man will be Horace G. Taylor, of Trenton.

A reception will follow the ceremony at the house of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Leggett Guillauden, No. 257 West Seventy-third Street.

Miss Guillauden is the daughter of the president of the Old Dominion Steamship Company. Both she and her parents are well known and most highly esteemed here. The wedding announcement is most interesting, and the celebration will doubtless be attended by a number of intimate Richmond friends.

A prospective wedding of great interest in this city is that of Miss Emale Ayres Wooding, second daughter of Captain and Mrs. Harry Wooding, of Danville, to Mr. Frank Fessenden Spencer. The nuptials are to be celebrated on Wednesday, October 22d, at noon, at the residence of Captain Wooding, No. 511 Main Street, Danville. The bride-elect is well known in Richmond, having several times visited Miss Frances Crouch, of this city. She has been the recipient of many social honors at home and in other States. Some years ago she represented the Fifth Virginia District as sponsor to the Confederate reunion at Louisville, and was one of the most admired women in that noteworthy group of Southern beauties. During the carnival of 1909 in Danville, Miss Wooding lacked but a few votes of carrying off the honor of queen of the carnival in a spirited competition, and was made first princess, the next distinction. She is a young woman of handsome presence and most gracious manners, a typical daughter of the South. Mr. Spencer is well known in this city. He is a mechanical engineer, and was formerly employed here, but is now located in Danville. A New Yorker by nativity, he is a Virginian by choice, and in taking a daughter of the Old Dominion he will strengthen the ties that bind him to the old State.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Valentine for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Lella Valentine, to Mr. William Cameron Fulcher. The wedding will take place, Wednesday, at 5:15 P. M., October 22d, in the home of the bride, at Twenty-third and M. Streets, Church Hill.

Miss Valentine is a very popular young lady of the East End. Mr. Fulcher is a business man of Staunton, Va., where he has a host of friends.

The wedding of Miss Amy Deane Williams, the daughter of Mr. John C. Williams, of West Grace Street, to Mr. Hugh Philip Powell, is announced to take place Tuesday next in the First Baptist Church, and is looked forward to with much interest by the friends of both parties.

Miss M. Louise Smith, the pretty and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Smith, was married at 7:30 o'clock P. M. Wednesday, October 14th, to Dr. Samuel A. McAnally, a well known dentist of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Lear, pastor of Centenary Methodist Church, at his residence, No. 112 North Fifth Street. The bride was handsomely attired in a gown of blue silk. She wore a white hat and carried a bouquet of roses.

Many Richmond friends will attend the marriage on Wednesday next of Miss Daisy Moody Elliott to Dr. Emmett H. Terrell, of this city.

The ceremony will be performed at Oak Grove, Hanover county, the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. A. C. Elliott. The young couple will return from their wedding trip to live at No. 304 East Grace.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Elise de La Tour, a beautiful and accomplished young lady of Lynchburg, Vt., to Mr. William Daniel Ligon, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The wedding date is set for early December, the ceremony to take place in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Lynchburg. Miss de La Tour is the third daughter of Mr. Louis de La Tour, and is descended from a famous French family. Her fiancé is a Virginian by nativity and a graduate of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute. He is now the mechanical and electrical engineer of the Westinghouse Electrical Company, in Pittsburgh.

Miss Frances Barton Duer, of Wynoke, near Pikeville, Md., the daughter of the late Adgate Duer, and the great-granddaughter of Chief Justice Marshall, of Virginia, has announced her engagement to Mr. Daniel Heyward Hamilton, Jr., formerly of North Carolina. The date of the wedding has not yet been decided.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Norris have issued cards for the marriage of their daughter, Amanda Ellen, to Mr. Robert Bruce Ogden. The ceremony will take place in the Methodist Episcopal Church, in Leesburg Va., Wednesday October 23d, at 5:15 o'clock P. M.

Mr. and Mrs. John Norfleet Vaughan have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Myra, to Mr. Gustav Serpell Friebus. The wedding will take place on Thursday evening, November 19th, at 8:30 o'clock, at Christ Church, Norfolk, Va. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 181 Freemason Street.

The wedding of Miss George Wylie Royal to Mr. James Vaughan Jones, of Hampton, Va., took place Wednesday afternoon at "Cedar Grove," the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Catlin, near Morriston's Va., the Rev. C. B. Bryan, of St. John's Episcopal Church, Hampton, Va., officiating.

The bride, gowned in white mousseline, was attended by her matron of honor,

Mrs. Hitchcock's Lecture.

The special event of to-morrow evening will be the lecture presented at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, by Mrs. Mary E. Hitchcock, on "Alaska, the Modern Wonderland."

The hour for the lecture is 8:30 o'clock. As it is the opening event in the lecture course for the year, and is given by the club in compliment to their friends, each member being allowed the privilege of sending out two invitations, the interest felt in regard to it is widespread throughout the city.

The Hon. Elisha Dyer, former Governor

"It is not only a tribute to their own perseverance and determination, but to the character of intelligent and fearless Anglo-Saxon women, who, among all sorts and conditions of men, never fail to secure protection and respect."

"The tourists who compose the audience on the expedition of an hour, to a veritable golden fairland, experience novel and most amusing adventures. Laughable the sojourn at night in cabins far from attractive in appearance. The arrival in Adlin, the most beautiful spot in all the world, the cordial reception, the funny happenings, more than repay the traveler for all hardships met with on the trail."

A tasteful and appropriate souvenir for Character Party.

On Monday evening, 18th instant, Miss Frances Murray will tender a "character reception" to some of her young friends at her home, No. 408 East Main Street. Each guest will impersonate a fictitious, historical, or comic character. These novel entertainments were very popular at the springs last month, but this will be the first one given in Richmond. They are really masquerades, without the discomfort of having the face masked, and afford much merriment.

Mrs. A. F. Hunt gave a beautiful double birthday celebration Friday from 5 to 7 P. M., in honor of her two little sons, Masters Albert F. Jr., and Spotswood. The extremely pretty color scheme in parlor and dining room decoration was in pink and white, and each little guest received a miniature basket filled with chocolate bonbons and tied with pink and white ribbon.

Decorated "dinner sets" were given as prizes to Miss Louise Rose and Master Robert Miles. Those present were Masters Albert F. and Spotswood H. Hunt, Misses Mildred Crals, Miss Helen and Miss Virginia Loraine, Miss Mary and Miss Agnes Griggs, Miss Antoinette and Miss Nannie Garland Thierman, Miss Edith Upshur, Miss Margaret Miles, Miss Katherine and Miss Judith Rhodes, Miss Margaret Miller and Miss Louise Rose, Masters Edgar J. Lafferty, Jr., David Porter Guest, Lattimer Montague, Edgar Montague, Norman Young, Robertson Capers, Charles Hall Mason, Jr., William Briggs, Edward Hunt, Oscar Upshur, Robert Miles, Hunter Barksdale and Winthrop Fitzhugh.

Mr. and Mrs. James S. Robinson entertained Thursday evening at their home, in Melbourne, in King William county, the friends of their guests, Miss Mary Anderson and Miss Grace Heraman.

The house was beautifully decorated, and during the evening an elaborate supper was served. Among those present were Misses Austin, Anderson, Campbell, Edwards, Nannie and Sallie Gregory, Hill, Hersman, Johnson, of New Jersey; Lucy and Vena Littlepage, Maria and Hila Robinson, Ryland, Eva and Linda Williams, Messrs. Burke, Edwards, Gwathney, Hill, Hardy, Walter, Wiley and Charlie Lipscomb, Littlepage, Neal, Robinson and Colonel Johnson; Messames Thomas Henley and James S. Robinson.

A reception in honor of Miss Estelle Rudd, the recently elected State secretary of the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union, will be tendered next Tuesday evening, October 20th, beginning at 8 o'clock, at the residence of the president of "Conquest Y," in Home Place, near the Soldiers' Home.

All of the "Y" presidents of Richmond and vicinity are cordially invited to be present and do their new State secretary honor. A very pleasant evening of good music and enjoyable entertainment is assured.

Mrs. John Bagby entertained Monday evening in honor of her guests, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Woodruff, of Camden, N. J.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Bagby, Mr. and Mrs. James Harwood, Mrs. John Harwood, the Rev. Dr. Bagby, Misses Jannie Polard, Vida Chalkey, Bessie French, Bright Hall, of Rhode Island, says in his introduction to Mrs. Hitchcock's recent book, "Two Women in the Klondike": She is the widow of the late Commander Roswell D. Hitchcock, U. S. navy, son of the late Rev. Roswell D. Hitchcock, D. D., LL. D., many years president of the Union Theological Seminary, New York. Born and reared in luxury and refinement, she and a companion braved all the hardships and dangers of a journey to that terrible wilderness of the North, and all the discomforts of a life along the very skirmish line of civilization. The narrative of such an experience cannot fail to be most interesting and most instructive.

Miss Ada L. Walters and Mr. John L. Christian were quietly married by the Rev. J. B. Hutton Wednesday morning, October 14th, at 9:30.

The marriage took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. M. A. Walters, No. 514 Reservoir Street. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Christian left for the home of the groom, in Point Easton, Va., where a reception was tendered them. They will be at home to their friends after November 1st at No. 514 Reservoir Street.

The Masonic Home Auxiliary will meet in the Temple on Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock.

Donation week at the Male Orphan Asylum, beginning to-morrow, Monday, 18th, will extend through October 24th. It is the first time that an appeal of this kind has been made, and a generous response is hoped for. Contributions of all kind for store room, house, farm, or garden, will be gratefully received, and will be called for if a postal or a phone message is sent Mrs. J. B. Gill, the superintendent of the asylum.
